

DEATH OF DR. WELLENDOFF

SUPERINTENDENT OF THE ALAMEDA WATER COMPANY.

He Had Been a Well Known and Prominent Citizen For Many Years.

Dr. Louis Wellendorf, superintendent of the Alameda Water Company, died Saturday afternoon at the East Bay Sanitarium, where he had been under treatment for several weeks for liver troubles. An operation was performed last week and the patient was not able to withstand it.

Dr. Wellendorf was 54 years of age and a native of Darmstadt, Germany. He was educated in the fatherland as a druggist and came to the United States about forty years ago, settling in California. He spent a number of years in Trinity and Shasta counties, coming to Berkeley twelve years ago. He was superintendent of the water works during all of the period of his residence here.

Mrs. Wellendorf and Miss Maud Wellendorf, the widow and daughter of the deceased, left last night for Shasta county with the remains. The funeral will be conducted today by the Masons. Dr. Wellendorf was a member of Durant Lodge of Berkeley.

Private funeral services were conducted yesterday afternoon at the residence, 1601 Walnut street, by the Rev. J. Clarke Robbins. A number of local Masons were present and an escort of members of Durant Lodge accompanied the body to the train.

BEACON FIREMENS' ENTERTAINMENT

The Beacon Fire Company of West Berkeley gave an entertainment and dance last night in Sister's hall. Music was furnished by Cook's orchestra and a very enjoyable program was rendered.

Miss M. Bolsted gave a vocal solo which was enthusiastically applauded. She responded with "Good Bye, Sweet Day." H. Geertz rendered a zither solo of his own composition entitled "A Trip to Mars." F. Biven gave some amusing black face specialties, and a very clever sleight of hand performance was given by Anderson and Carroll.

The dance which followed the entertainment was much enjoyed by those present. Those in charge of the affair were the following:

Floor manager, James Hamilton; assistant floor manager, P. Nickelman; floor committee, B. Hamilton, J. Langer, O. Nawell, C. Wulferdingen; reception committee, I. Wolff, C. Hadien, Ed. McVey, S. Shirek, A. Larsen, W. Carroll, A. Anderson; stage manager, G. H. Phillips; general committee arrangements, I. Wolff, S. Shirek, T. Dowd, G. H. Phillips, J. Hamilton, W. Davis.

Red Cross Meeting Tomorrow.

A meeting of the Berkeley Red Cross Society is called for Sunday, May 1st, at 4 p. m., in the Congregational Church, corner Durant avenue and Dana street, for the completion of the organization of the Society, the election of officers, and other business. All persons interested in the cause of this Society are urgently requested to be present. By order of the President, G. F. GREENLEAF, Pres.

MARRIED AT TEMESCAL.

MISS NELLIE PETERSON AND WILLIAM E. SQUIRES.

Wedding This Afternoon of Two Young People Well-Known in Berkeley.

The wedding of Will S. Squires, bookkeeper of the Commercial bank and Miss Nellie Peterson of West Berkeley, took place this afternoon in Temescal. Both the young people are well-known and popular in all parts of this city. Miss Peterson is the daughter of Mrs. Peterson of Fifth street, between University avenue and Addison street.

The groom is a son of Town Treasurer John Squires, and has been employed as bookkeeper in the Commercial bank for over a year.

The wedding took place at the residence of the Rev. James Curry of Temescal, who has married several other members of the Squires family. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Squires will go to Mount Shasta Camp, where they will stay two weeks.

HAWLEY-MURPHY.

The marriage of Miss Lillian Marie Murphy, daughter of Judge Murphy of San Francisco and Dr. Arthur J. Hawley, the well known local pharmacist, took place last evening at the residence of the bride's parents, 129 Liberty street, San Francisco.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Lynch of St. James church.

The bride, who is a very charming girl, was attired in a dainty combination of white organdie, narrow white ribbon and Valenciennes lace. The corsage and sleeves were covered with the tiny cobweb-frills, and the ribbon-bands and the skirt had also an elaborate trimming of lace and ribbon. A satin tucked stock and white ribbon sashes finished the neck and waist and made a most appropriate frock.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon at Los Angeles. On their return they will occupy the Thomas residence, 2115 Bancroft way.

Library Vandals.

A great deal of annoyance is being occasioned by vandals in the free reading room. Papers are stolen from the files and illustrations are cut from the magazines. Steps will be taken to watch the depredators, and if caught they will be severely punished.

CURED BY AN ABSCESS

RECOVERY OF S. F. SPRINGER OF NORTH BERKELEY.

He Had Been a Helpless Paralytic for Eight Years and Is Cured.

Samuel F. Springer of North Berkeley, after eight years of almost complete helplessness from paralysis, is able to walk and speak again, and seems likely to enjoy good health, all on account of the bursting of an abscess on his brain. The case has been watched in the past few days and is a source of wonder to Mr. Springer's friends.

Eight years ago Mr. Springer suffered a stroke of paralysis. He was unable to walk or even speak and his brain appeared to be affected. During all the time that has elapsed since the stroke came medical science has not been able to benefit him to any considerable degree.

Last week the sudden improvement came. An abscess on the brain with which Mr. Springer has been suffering burst, and it seemed to remedy his paralysis at once. He is now able to converse with his friends and last night was walking in his garden. Mr. Springer is 66 years of age and resides at the corner of Louisa and Delaware streets.

HONORS FOR PROFESSOR SILL.

A FOUNTAIN TO BE ERECTED TO HIS MEMORY.

A Late University Professor to Be Given a Fitting Memorial.

There is a project afoot, with bright prospects for success, to erect a fountain in the south court of the Oakland High school grounds to the memory of Edward Rowland Sill, the poet, who at one time was a teacher in that institution and later a professor in the State University.

It is understood that the scheme, which is looked upon with great favor by the school's alumni and especially by those who were so fortunate as to come under the tutelage of Professor Sill, has the support of a number of very influential persons in the community. Besides this, the plan has been taken up with energy by the students forming the graduation class of the High school—the class of June, '98—who think that there could be no better gift which they might leave behind to the school of the future.

The matter has not yet taken any tangible shape, as it will take some little time to arrange the necessary details for carrying the plan to a successful culmination. It has been suggested that a fountain such as would be desired would not cost over $800. It is not thought that it would cost anything for having a model made, for sculptors with a true love for art would gladly offer their services to design a memorial to a man who was so much of an artist himself.

There is still another question which must be settled before the scheme is assured of success, and it is the vexatious one of providing the necessary water. And in these times when the combined water companies want meter rates charged for all school service, this is really a question of importance. It is probably out of the question to hope that the water combine will offer this particular service free, for water corporations are not generally moved by such considerations as erecting memorials to artists. The solution of the difficulty is to be found in a large-hearted Board of Education and City Council, which bodies—the one moved by respect for a great teacher and the other by a desire to enhance the beauty of our public grounds—could reasonably be expected to be generous to the extent of paying for the water supply for such a fountain.

Already have the members of the Senior B class at the High school moved in the matter. A committee of five has been chosen to have charge of raising the funds. It is now proposed to give a concert at one of the large churches in the city, at which the very best talent obtainable in the city will be asked to tender their services for the sake of the "old school" they once attended in childhood's happy days. The faculty at the school have likewise become interested and are doing all in their power to make it possible for the project to be carried out.

DR. WELLENDOFF.

The death of Superintendent Wellendorf of the Alameda Water Company will be generally regretted. Dr. Wellendorf has been hampered in his duties by circumstances over which he had no control, but he labored earnestly and energetically, so far as lay in his power, to accommodate the public and remedy the multitude of complaints which constantly poured into his office.

VANDALISM.

The vandals who have been stealing and mutilating the newspapers and periodicals in the Public Reading Room are deserving of severe punishment, and it is to be hoped that they will be apprehended in order that they may receive their deserts. The Reading Room is maintained for the accommodation of the public, and the reading matter is not the property of a few irresponsible and conscienceless individuals to appropriate as they see fit.

THE TEXT BOOK QUESTION.

There is an evident effort being made by some to give the public the impression that the action of the late convention of School Superintendents, at Sacramento, was a victory for the trust. Do the facts warrant the charge? This paper has given the full text of the resolutions, and invites a careful reading of them.

The first statement favors uniformity of the series for the State.

The next is a statement that the system is not satisfactory and is a failure in point of usefulness to furnish good text-books on the various subjects. The first division of this paragraph is in evidence all over the State, not only among teachers and superintendents, but parents as well. Further on a paragraph explains this materially, by stating the cause to be inefficiency in compilation. That is the rock on which all the objections stand.

The convention said it did not dictate in the method of providing for the mechanical work, but demands the best books possible to be procured at a reasonable expense. Is that a victory for the school book trust that we hear so much about? If so, it is more easily satisfied than any other trust or combine on record. It was just the right position for the convention to take. There has been a great flourish of trumpets about the cheapness of the California system, and at the same time the system presents itself to many of the taxpayers over the state to the belief that they are paying twice for their books—once by taxation and again by purchase when they buy the books for use. If that is even partially correct the tax payers will stand by the superintendents in demanding the best that talent and workmanship can produce. The reasonableness of the charge made for books made by the state is not an item of comparison with series sold by trusts in one state or another; but it is a question of what it cost the state to produce its series, and whether that cost is the cost of production in fact, or a calculation of cost for the labor of an already salaried corps of workmen.

The defeat of the Elwine amendment was timely. No doubt the superintendents know a great deal more about the production of the California series than some people suppose, and thought it not best to wipe out all semblance of competition, especially as there are serious objections to the subject matter of the State series.

We prophesy good results to California text books from this stirring action of the convention, and at no distant day.

HIGH SCHOOL A DEAD ISSUE.

The new High School matter has resolved itself into a silent problem. It is like the "sixteen puzzle"—everybody gives it up. But "what are you going to do about it" is the main question, if not the only question. The citizens will not vote bonds, and a direct tax is impracticable, for the reason that a sufficient sum can not be raised in addition to other demands, that must be met, to make even a respectable beginning. There is supposed to be, at least intended by statute, a limit to levies for taxation. Legislators have endeavored to protect tax payers to some extent on most things, but the limit is sometimes exceeded.

Another dilemma makes the problem more difficult, the present High School location is unsatisfactory. The grounds are too small and too near business; it is only a question of a short time until business will crowd the grounds all around, unless the city can buy to the street on the east, which it cannot for the same reason that it cannot erect better buildings. The only relief from this is the sale of the present lots and purchase or exchange for cheaper ground more suitable for the purpose.

It appears, also, that there is to some extent a feeling among property owners that an unfair burden will be imposed upon them for high schools because of the attraction of transient residents to the University city to get advantages of the educational facilities. In this view the High School becomes a preparatory department for the University, and some who come to enter it are turned back into that school. How positively this objection can be shown to enter into the real issue we cannot now say, or whether it is mainly assumed, or can be borne out by evidence. It does not often occur that people of the class seeking education for their children are a bad adjunct to any city or community, and we seriously doubt if it has proven so in the case of Berkeley, unless it be in the matter of taxes.

If the attraction to the University, a State institution, is throwing into our High Schools an unnatural and excessively burdensome proportion of those seeking higher education, for the reason that the University does not afford a preparatory department, and accredited schools throughout the State being limited, then there ought to be a remedy in which the State would become a factor. The school census as a basis, followed by a careful investigation of the matter, will bring light to this phase of the question; and if the facts bear out the claims, let the matter be presented to the legislature in a formidable and comprehensive manner, asking that the State equalize the difference in a way that will relieve local taxpayers of excessive burdens and improve the educational facilities of both the High School and the University. Let's do something.

That the public appreciates the work of the Fire Department is demonstrated by the fact that the public entertainments which the boys give are invariably attended by large and appreciative audiences.

FOR BLUE MONDAY.

"Yassir," said Mr. Erastus Pinkley; "when I goes ter de wah I won't be no awdinary sojer. I'll be a reg'lar bird."

"Mistuh Pinkley," responded Miss Miami Brown, "is you usin' slang, or is I to onderstan' dat you's gwineter jine de flyin' squadron?"

"What is the Spanish national air?" inquired the man who is musically inclined.

"I don't know," answered the intensely patriotic citizen. "But judging from the general complexion of the people I should say that quinine ought to go with it."

THE MAY OVERLAND.

The Overland for May is of great artistic merit and full of vigor, interest and information. The article that will attract the most attention, perhaps, is one by Lieutenant W. F. Fullam, U. S. A. It is a very timely description of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Special attention should be called to the offer of the Overland to establish ten scholarships at the University of California and Stanford, by means of which any ambitious young man or woman may obtain from one to four years' course of study, with board, lodging and free transportation from any part of the United States or Canada.

DEATH CAME VERY SUDDENLY.

Andre Samuilet of 926 Addison street, died suddenly last night at his home. He was seemingly in his usual health a few moments before he passed away, and his demise is being investigated by the Coroner. Mr. Samuilet was a florist. At half-past seven last night he was in his garden at work. Later he played cards in his home, but at about half-past eight he complained of a pain in his chest. Dr. F. H. Payne was summoned, but death came before the doctor arrived. The remains were removed to the morgue. The deceased leaves a wife, with whom he had lived forty-eight years.

DONALD WILSON'S TERRIBLE FALL.

Little Donald Wilson, the eight-year-old son of Washington Wilson of 2229 Chapel street, fell from a tall windmill at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, turning over and over in his descent from the great height. He was not killed outright but received internal injuries which may result fatally.

The accident was caused by the boy making a misstep. He was playing tag with a lot of companions in the neighborhood of his parents' home. The boys became quite venturesome in seeking places of hiding during the game, and finally Donald climbed to the top platform of a windmill in the grounds of Mrs. Annie M. Nelson at 2226 Chapel street. He stood looking around from this point of vantage and leaned over the rail that surrounded the platform to watch his playfellows. The rail was only a flimsy piece of scantling and when he attempted to recover himself he made a misstep, lost his balance and toppled over.

The injured boy was attended by Dr. Eastman.

KIRKE GILBERT IS DISABLED.

Kirke Gilbert, who in company with J. C. Berry left for the Klondike several months ago, is now on his way back. Gilbert and Berry were at Sheep's Camp when the great avalanche took place.

The young Berkeleyan worked hard in the snow to rescue the victims and contracted a severe case of rheumatism. Berry took his partner back to Skaguay whence he sent him to Seattle, where Gilbert is now resting. He expects to return to Berkeley in a couple of weeks.

Young Men's Republican Club.

At the meeting Friday night the committee on permanent headquarters were given further time.

Great interest was taken by the club when the chairman, C. D. Maloney, with a few well chosen words introduced to the club the North Berkeley Brass Band, who played numerous pieces. As a whole the club enjoyed a pleasant evening with an increase in the membership roll.

The club now has eighty names on the roll. In regard to membership in the club it became necessary to change the limit of age. The committee on organization changed their report so as to read from 20 to 40, so as to give those that had nearly arrived to their majority, a chance to join.

The next meeting will be held Friday evening, May 6th.

Lorin Fire Company's House Warming.

The Lorin Fire Company's house was open for investigation last night. Special invitations had been sent to the Board of Trustees, but much to the company's disappointment the Board was not present. The boys feel that the Board should have had interest enough in their success to attend this, their natal day, as they had made special arrangements for their reception. However, a large number of friends gathered to wish them success.

PROPOSED NEW ATHLETIC GROUNDS.

The executive committee of the Athletic Association of the University has formulated plans which will result in the building of a new athletic field within the year. The athletic managers of California expect to spend $15,000 on track, field and training quarters.

The new field will be located in the northwest part of the University grounds, at the corner of Oxford street and Hearst avenue. A three-lap cinder track will be built, and inside will be the football and basketball fields and two-bituminous tennis courts.

A grandstand and bleachers to accommodate 1500 people is also contemplated. The whole field will be fenced, and campus games, which have so long been financial failures, will now bring added revenue to the managers. A large clubhouse and training quarters is to be erected near the field. Quarters will be provided for trainers, coaches and men. Rubbing-rooms, baths and a gymnasium will be attached.

The Board of Regents will be requested to appropriate the money for this new athletic enterprise. One-fourth of the additional tax levy made last year must be spent each year in improvements of the buildings and grounds. At present an addition to the Mechanics' building and a building for the Dining Association are the only expenses now contemplated by the Regents. The necessary money could be appropriated from this fund.

Skipped Out Because of an Accident.

Frank Haanstra of 755 Jackson street, Oakland, who has been employed as helper to the pressmen in the GAZETTE and WORLD office, broke an attachment belonging to the press which disabled it for some time yesterday. The boy left the office soon after and has not yet been heard of. His family have secured the assistance of the police, who are searching for him, but so far no clew has been found. It is supposed that he became so frightened that he is afraid to make his whereabouts known.

Copartnership Partners.

The Pacific Lumber Company, a corporation, with its principal place of business in San Francisco, and D. B. Hunter of Berkeley, have formed a partnership to transact a general lumber business under the name of the Pacific Lumber Company.

Mr. Tyler's Lecture.

George N. Tyler of Alameda will address the Berkeley Floral Society next Monday evening on "Chrysanthemums."

O. G. May & Co. are building a six-room cottage on Hearst avenue near Oxford street, for Mrs. Charlotte Shurtliff of Grass Valley, who expects to make Berkeley her future home. Mr. May expects to have the cottage completed in two weeks.

The Nazarenes will hold a cottage prayer meeting at the home of Mr. Bosworth on University avenue, between Sixth and Seventh streets, Monday evening at 7:30.

Many persons cannot take plain cod-liver oil. They cannot digest it. It upsets the stomach. Knowing these things, we have digested the oil in Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites; that is, we have broken it up into little globules, or droplets.

We use machinery to do the work of the digestive organs, and you obtain the good effects of the digested oil at once. That is why you can take Scott's Emulsion.

THE KING DIMOND.

By CULTICLIFFS HYNE.

...became regularly amusing to listen to. Diamonds were not spoken of once after Lord Rayburn's yacht joined us, and I began to think that our passengers could make themselves as nice and cheery a lot as any man might want to meet. I just let Farren slide. I'd no use for any more of his sermon and water talk, and the day after the yacht turned up when he asked himself down to my room while I was making up some accounts after lunch; I let him know sharply enough that people who came in there had to wait for an invitation. A pursuer like me doesn't chum with cheap testotolers of the Mr. Farren type unless he's pretty hard up for a mate.

But, mark you, that man was no fool, and he got around me two days later in a way I don't think anybody could conveniently have guessed at. "From what turned out afterward I suppose he intended to play his little game directly after the yacht joined us, but the weather was a bit dirty then, and it freshened up to a snorting breeze directly afterward, which we carried with us all the road through the bay. There was a big, ugly head sea running, which knocked a couple of knots off our pace, and the yacht was making very wet weather of it indeed. A careful skipper would have slowed her down, but here didn't. He rammed her at it and risked carrying everything away. He hung on exactly in his place, and our passengers bet Lord Rayburn himself was on board forcing the old man to drive her.

"But when we rounded Ushant and opened out the channel the breeze left us, and the sea went down a bit, although it was still ugly enough, and that was the time Farren came on the carpet again, and although, as I say, what he did got me the sack from the company I'll own straight out that no man could have shown more real devil, armor plated pluck.

"He came up to me in the port alleyway that day just after lunch, wabbling about on his feet as he always did when we were in a sea way.

"Mr. Horrocks," he says, with his cheap, sickly grin, "it's a long time since we had one of our chats together."

"This," I said, "I've been busy. I'm busy now. I'm very behindhand with making up the ship's papers."

"Ah," says he, "you've been so taken up with this yacht business that it's dragged you away from your work. It seems to have made a large amount of interest in the ship."

"Oh," I said, "that lot will bet on anything."

"He laughed in a weak sort of way. 'Well, pursuer,' says he, 'I hope you've feathered your own nest over the affair.'"

"I can't say I have," said I and began to move off toward my room.

"Pity that," says he, "when it's so easy."

"I turned round. 'How do you mean? Could you make money out of it?'"

"Certainly I could," I replied, "only, as you know, I consider it wrong to bet."

"Then," said I a bit sarcastically, "you must have information which nobody else on this ship has got."

"His eyes wandered over with me with a look of surprise, and he sent him against a cabin door. He was a man who never found his sea legs."

"And why shouldn't I have?" he says slowly.

"Well, if it comes to that, how can you of all people know what the yacht is doing here?"

"Never mind, Mr. Horrocks, how I picked up the knowledge, but you can take it from me that I not only know who's on board, but I also know that yacht's exact business."

"That's an asset of value," I said, and then stopped and considered a minute.

"Is there any consideration that I could offer which would induce you to part with the knowledge?"

"My dear Horrocks," he said, "if you want to know, of course I'll tell you freely enough. I'd have told you any time if you'd asked me. Only I don't think we've seen much of one another since the yacht's been in sight."

"He had me there."

"It's a bit of a long story," he went on, "but if you can wait a minute or so I'll tell you now—if you think no one is likely to overhear us, standing where we are."

"Certainly not, Mr. Farren," said I. "You come right along to my room and have a cigar. You won't drink whisky, I know, but you shall have a good luncheon in two shakes if you care for that."

The pursuer of the Locomo ceased speaking and scripped a match. When it was well lighted, he held the charred end of his cigar in the flame and watched it with interest. "I am afraid," he said, "that I am boring you gentlemen with all these preliminaries. I never could tell a tale well. Besides, there's one man in this smokeroom who could finish this yarn much better than I can. He knows a lot of facts about it that I have not even guessed at up to now."

The eyes of the smokeroom swung round till they all converged on Pitcairn, but that excellent person for once in his life looked slightly confused. The pursuer came to his rescue. He intimated that Pitcairn's brain was quite unequal to guessing the sequel of the yarn and again invited the only man who could finish it to do so in detail.

HEALTH CATECHISM.

To Be Committed to Memory by

All Dyspeptics, Invalids,

Consumptives.

What is the first cause of nine-tenths of all disease?

Imperfect digestion of food.

Why does imperfect digestion cause disease of other organs?

Because blood, muscles, bone and flesh are derived from the food we eat and digest. If digestion is perfect the blood is pure, nerves and muscles strong, flesh firm. If the digester is poor, the blood is supplied from half-digested, fermenting food, irritating every nerve and organ. The result is, sooner or later, organic disease, because every organ being poorly nourished the weakest gives way first and we have liver trouble, kidney complaints, heart disease or consumption.

Is not dieting, the usual and best treatment to cure indigestion?

No, because the dyspeptic has been starved long enough; what is needed is abundant nourishment, not the lack of it. The stomach and blood demand nutriment, not bran crackers.

What is the best method of cure?

Plenty of wholesome food well digested.

But how can a weak stomach digest plenty of wholesome food?

By taking with the food after each meal certain harmless remedies which are known to digest food and thus nourish the blood and rest the weak stomach.

What are these harmless remedies?

The most valuable are vegetable or meats, pure pepsin, Golden Seal and fruit salts. All of these are now combined in the form of pleasant tasting tablets sold by druggists under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Are these tablets superior to the various liquid preparations so called dyspepsia cures?

Most decidedly, because all liquid medicines become stales with age and lose whatever good qualities they may have had originally, while the tablet retains its properties indefinitely. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can be carried in the pocket always at hand ready for use when traveling or at daily occupation. They cost but 50 cents, and should be kept in every family. They keep the digestion perfect and save doctor's bills by warding off disease.

Are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets adapted to all forms of dyspepsia?

Yes, because in all cases the trouble results from indigestion, fermenting food—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cause the food to be digested before it has time to ferment.

If you wish to know more about them ask your druggist for a package and try them.

Notice is hereby given that all citizens whose names are not now on the Great Register of Alameda County are requested to register in order to be entitled to vote at next general election in November 1898.

That owing to failure of Legislature to provide assistance for Clerk, it is necessary to begin registration at an early date in order to satisfactorily attend to registration.

That voters who have since the date of the last general election taken up their residence in Alameda County, and those who since that date have removed from precinct in which their name appears on Great Register, must make affidavit in order to have their names placed on Register of precinct in which they now reside.

That it is NOT necessary for voters who registered at the general election of 1896 and whose names appear on the Great Register of 1896 to again make affidavit for registration UNLESS SINCE THE DATE OF LAST REGISTRATION THEY HAVE CHANGED THEIR RESIDENCE.

That registration will continue to and including August 9th, 1898, after which it will cease.

Further notice is called to the provisions of Section 1083, which provides that those who shall have been a resident of the State one year next preceding the election, and of the county in which they claim their vote NINETY DAYS and in the election precinct THIRTY DAYS are entitled to registration.

Further notice is hereby given that affidavit for registration or transfer may be sworn to before any Deputy County Clerk in the different towns and precincts of the county, or before any Deputy County Assessor, without charge.

Affidavits can also be sworn to before any Justice of the Peace or Notary Public.

Notice is given that after the filing of affidavits, OTHER THAN FOR THE PURPOSES OF TRANSFER, when names are entered on Great Register, postal cards will be sent giving date of entry. If postal is not received, voters should ascertain the reason.

The office of the County Clerk in the Hall of Records will be, until further notice, open for registration from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. of each day.

Dated April 1, 1898.
